

As a resident of one of the most gridlocked traffic areas in the U.S. I have found XM satellite radio's instant traffic information an invaluable service that is worth every penny (and much more) that I pay every month. The outstanding content included in XM's varied format is also an exceptional value, being informative and entertaining. As I freely pay $9.95/month for my XM radio subscription (plus $6.95 each for three other parties I have purchased XM satellite radios for) I obviously benefit from and enjoy satellite radio immensely.

Please, FCC, don't try to "fix what ain't broken."

I ask that you please reject the NAB's petition 04-160.

Thank you for your consideration,
